TCSJOHNHUXLEY broadens the range of Qorex Electronic Gaming Solutions

G2E 2017 provided the perfect showcase for TCSJOHNHUXLEY to debut new additions to the Qorex Electronic Gaming Solutions range.

Powered by the GFL Gaming module which provides exciting live and automated game content, the ergonomically designed Qorex Terminal was launched as a smaller 23” cabinet in addition to the existing 27” version.

This new 23” cabinet incorporates all the features of the original larger terminal, but has been designed to provide a more compact footprint – ideal when space is at a premium or there’s a restriction on the number of tables.

Steph Nel, TCSJOHNHUXLEY General Manager for the Americas comments, “Our original Qorex terminal has one of the largest HD screens available on an EGT, providing unrivalled graphics and clear live video of wheels or intelligent shoes. However, we realized the benefits of being able to offer a smaller, 23” terminal for casinos that may have limited floor space and would benefit from the space saving footprint. We have been able to pack in all the same features to the smaller terminal, illustrating how flexible the range can be.”

Also, debuting in the Americas was the latest design Qorex Fixed Tablet Table, featuring integrated note acceptors and ticket printers that have been cleverly designed with interlocking modules, so they can be configured easily to fit any space or requirement. This also allows them to be easily integrated into custom furniture or bars. Displayed as a 6-player unit with a built in Saturn™ Auto Wheel, Qorex Tablet Table features fixed tablets that incorporate the same consistent User Interface found in all Qorex products. This allows the player to navigate easily from game to game as well as transitioning from terminals to tablets.
