

THE COUNTDOWN TO G2E HAS BEGUN! HERE'S WHAT WE'RE EXCITED ABOUT:

The Exchange is Back!

Last year, The Innovation Group (TIG) launched a short format education and networking opportunity we are excited to bring back to G2E 2019. The Exchange was named with its goal in mind: to provide a place to hear new ideas and meet new people, to exchange ideas and information. This year, we are particularly excited to be putting together a line-up of young speakers from inside and outside the firm who will bring fresh thinking and new perspectives to the conversation. Stay tuned for our full slate of speakers and topics coming soon. In the meantime, we hope you'll save the date for this free, morning event:

Hot Takes from Team TIG

Below is a taste of what we're thinking about as we prepare for next month's show. To continue the conversation now or in Las Vegas, connect with us directly or contact Allison McCoy to help coordinate. We look forward to seeing you at G2E!

When asked for things they were excited to discuss at G2E, just this morning:

What do we really think the next generation of players want, and how should it effect planning on expansions and new builds?"

VP, Business Development

We had another incredible and record-breaking response to our nominations for this year's Emerging Leaders of Gaming (ELG) 40 Under 40. We are excited to announce soon, with our partners at Global Gaming Business magazine, this year's impressive class. In the meantime, save the date for our annual celebration and networking event for Emerging Leaders of Gaming at G2E. An RSVP is required.
