

ICE London delivers the best route to the iGaming market, confirms leading payment provider DIMOCO

DIMOCO, the renowned international payment solutions provider, will be making its debut appearance on stand N9-209 at ICE London (5-7 February at ExCeL London, UK) confirming there's 'no better platform' for engaging with the iGaming industry than at the world's largest b2b gaming technology event.

Founded in 2000, the Vienna-based company will be deploying a FinTech philosophy to lead its iGaming drive. The company's Head of Communications, Charlotte Newby, explained: "We have been visiting ICE London for many years, an annual pilgrimage that has led to the development of many successful partnerships within the industry. Not wishing to rest on our laurels, exciting technological developments at DIMOCO have led to new solutions in payments. These are especially suited to the iGaming industry, with the promise of delivering far greater conversion rates and capturing a far wider audience. At this time we have new ideas and solutions we want to share with the iGaming industry at large and there is no better platform to achieve this than at ICE London."

The company, which performs hundreds of millions of payment transactions across the globe, will be demonstrating its future-proof payment methods and risk management solutions, driven by their payment service act licences, both gained from the Austrian Financial Market Authority (FMA) and passported to all EU and EEA member countries. "DIMOCO has a firm foothold in many highly regulated industries, including adult entertainment and online gaming" continued Newby. "Experience gained in these markets have equipped DIMOCO with particular expertise in ID and age verification, attributes that are of huge importance to the iGaming industry. At ICE London we will be showcasing our portfolio which covers the broadest spectrum of payment methods from standard credit cards to a raft of APMs, including direct carrier billing."

In 2018 a record 33,536 visitors from 153 jurisdictions made the journey to ICE London, an 11 percent increase on the 2017 figure and a landmark which constituted the brand's seventh consecutive year of growth. The 2019 edition of ICE London has been confirmed as the biggest on record, comprising 45,500 sqm of net floor space.

For more information, and to experience the spirit of genius at ICE London 2019 (5-7 February, ExCeL London, UK), visit: icelondon.uk.com.

